David K. Allebach Joins Delancey Street Partners

Delancey Street Partners is pleased to announce that David Allebach has joined the firm as a Vice President. Mr. Allebach focuses on the origination and execution of merger and acquisition, capital raising and strategic advisory assignments for middle market private and public companies and will work closely with the senior members of the firm to continue to build the Delancey Street franchise across its platform.

Andrew Schmucker, Co-Founder and Managing Partner of DSP, commented, "We are thrilled to add David to our team. He has spent his career providing the level of trusted advice to clients that is consistent with DSP's values. We are finding that our client focused approach to investment banking and team oriented culture not only have appeal to our clients, but also create an attractive model to bankers who are seeking to advise companies over the long term."

Mr. Allebach joins Delancey Street Partners from Harris Williams & Co., where he spent twelve years executing merger and acquisition transactions across a variety of sectors, including business services, health care, environmental services, consumer products, industrial services, advanced manufacturing and distribution. Mr. Allebach earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Richmond and an MBA from the University of Chicago Booth School of Business.
